PLETT LASS TAKES THE LEAD AT GLENWOOD HOUSE: When one of the Southern Cape's most prestigious centres of learning this week announced its leaders for next year, the head girl spot was awarded to Alex Carter-Johnson - pictured here with her male counterpart and friend, Sebastian da Silva. As youngster Alex attended Plett Primary and apart from spending years representing her school and town on the Nippers beach, athletics field and on national level in the water-polo pool since Grade 8, she is also shining in academics, styling on the cultural front, and brimming with personality. Many congrats to parents Jacqui and Mark for raising such a proud Plett export product.

MAGNIFICENT MATRICS! This year, Born in Africa has 16 matriculants in its programme - and, says BIA director Isabelle Brink, "it's just remarkable that despite incredible adversity, these students have managed to reach this important milestone in their lives". The BIA matrics - who attend Plett Secondary, Outeniqua, and Witterdrift High schools - were treated to a farewell celebration on October 20 at Burnt Orange. "Normally, lavish gala evenings are hosted by their respective schools. But of course there is nothing normal about 2020," says Isabelle. So with the help of friends and donors, BIA arranged a special gathering for these deserving youngsters. Pictured above are some of the Grade 12s looking fab and holding boards showing their year of entry into the BIA programme - some of them since Grade 1. Significantly, six of BIA's Grade 11 students were selected as prefects at Witterdrift High for 2021 - one of them, Hlumisa Madolo, as deputy head girl. Flanking BIA educational coordinator Belinda Coram at top left are, from left, Delight Ngwenya, Yullynay Alexander, Hlumisa Madolo, Siyolise Modi, Jo Ann Mapondo, and Anastacia Olivier. TRIPLE BOGEYS TOPS: The most recent Plett Fun Quiz, raising funds for Tanaka Foundation, was a bubbly affair with 14 teams competing for prizes and bragging rights. Above is the winning outfit, Team Triple Bogeys - from left, Gavin and Julie Harley, Sandra and Graham Brooke, and Terry and Nanette Cunningham. In joint second place were the Stealth Bombers and Late Entries teams. Organiser Barry Ricketts thanks everyone who added zest to the evening, with prize sponsors including Bodyknots, Barrington's, Helen Melon Properties, Barrowdale Nursery, and Thyme & Again. About R6,000 was collected for the animal-loving Tanaka folk, and Barry advised that the next quiz date is December 3, when funds will benefit differently-abled bowlers.
